

Black swan events are defined by three core characteristics:

1. Rarity: These events fall outside the realm of regular expectations and are extremely difficult to foresee using conventional methods.

2. Impact: They carry profound consequences, often altering the course of industries or societies.

3. Retrospective Predictability:

After the event occurs, there is a tendency to rationalize it as something that should have been anticipated, despite its inherent unpredictability.

My Black Swan.....my unexpected experience

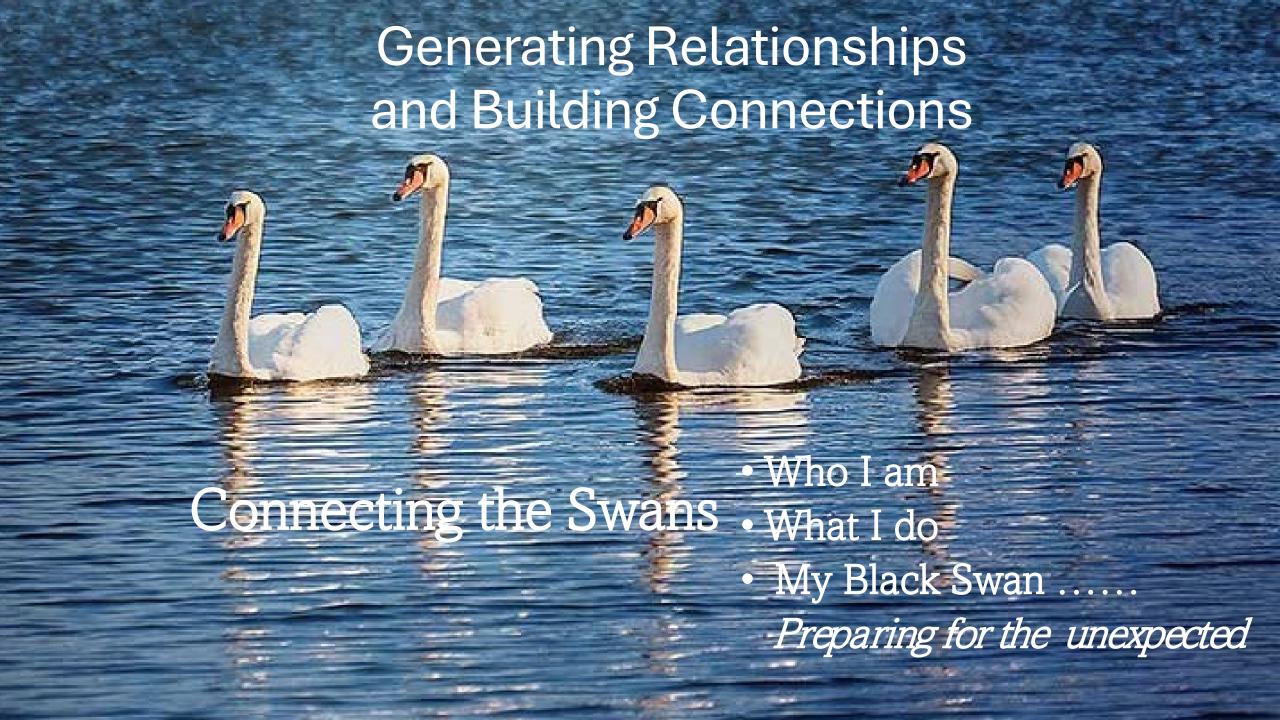

- 1. Prepare the paper: Start with a square piece of paper.
- Create a center crease: Fold the paper in half diagonally from one corner to the opposite corner, then unfold it.
- 3. Form the kite shape: Fold the two bottom corners in to meet the center vertical crease, forming a kite shape.
- 4. Flip and repeat: Flip the paper over to the other side and repeat the previous step, folding the two exterior points to the central crease again to create a tighter kite.
- 5. Fold the body: Fold the entire model in half lengthwise.
- 6. Create the neck and head: Pull the thin, pointed end of the paper up, creating the neck. Fold the very tip of the neck down to form the head.
- 7. The Masterpiece...is created!!

- 1. A group of lawyers go on a holiday but when they arrive, all the pool chairs are taken by holiday makers who have put their towels down and then gone to the breakfast buffet.
- 2. A chicken files a lawsuit demanding an explanation for why it must cross the road.
- 3. A highly improbable natural phenomenon causes all written documents, including laws and contracts, to disappear.

  Lawyers must now work without writing anything down and all past contracts and laws are based only on lawyer's memories.
- 4. All animals suddenly gain the ability to sue humans for grievances, leading to a flood of incredibly strange class-action lawsuits from pigeons for airport noise pollution, or a cat suing its owner for lack of affection.
